

Eduardo Guillén Solórzano
(edugs@udc.es)
Professor in Business Administration
Department of Economic Analysis and Business Administration
University of A
Coruña
Spain

Academic background

I finished my degree in Business Administration in 1999 and since then, I have been dealing with education both in the public and the private sector. I joined the University and the academic life one year later, after completing a Master in Business Administration at the Faculty of Management in the University of Southampton (U.K.)

I have been also involved in research activities since 2000, dedicating most of my time to logistics and business administration.

I finally read my PhD Thesis in 2003, and since then, I have the chance to participate in conferences, meetings, and many other activities all around, both in Europe and in The United States.

My topics of interest are all related to Management, Innovation and Entrepreneurship, both in the theoretical field, but also in the most practical fields, since we have the chance to be very close to industry due to the contracts and agreements that we promote every year.

Nowadays I lecture Management in the Faculty of Economics, the Faculty of Industrial Design, Master in Tourism, Master in Project Management, and I am visiting professor in other Universities and Private Schools related to the Business field.

We are now changing paradigms in education by the implementation of new methodologies, such as experimental learning, e-learning, and also outdoor training activities.

Interests

I spend most of my free time with my kids (I have three boys, aged 4, 7, and 10)..... I really have fun playing with them, and returning back to childhood every day, discovering with them all the secrets of life!!!!

I love summer... especially going to the beach and enjoying playing around on the sea. I love sea sports such as sailing, surfing, windsurfing, scuba diving and all sports related to sea.

And last, but not least, I love traveling, mostly because of meeting new people!